Description

This double house is a two story, six bay frame structure built about 1900 and having some Late Victorian Gothic influence. Each half of the two part house has a central cross gable with cut shingle trim and a decorated peak above a window. Windows have two over two pane sash and louvered shutters. The two main entrances are located in the central bays and are separated by a balustrade. There is a one story wraparound porch supported by doric columns.

Another house was on this property according to the 1877 Atlas. The owner's name was J. Snyder.
